Partnerships for Educating Children, 5th Edition is a book that I borrowed from a friend that used it as a college text. I read the chapters on Family Diversity, Roles and Experiences of Parents and Establishing and Maintaining Collaborative Relationships completely and the rest of the book I read parts of each chapter to help me with building better parent relations of the children that I teach.

The family provides physical, social, intellectual, spiritual and emotional environments. In the early growing years, the home environment has the greatest influence on the child's development. The culture of the family, the physical space wherein the family operates, plus routines, interests, skills, family outreach, and interpretations of events provide parameters for what children will learn.
