Unit 1: In The Beginning In this unit, children will discover how God created all that we know in the universe. They will learn that we are created in God's image and are special and valuable. This unit explores the story of Noah and that God wants us to be obedient and faithful just as Noah was. Children will also discover there are seasons in life and we can depend on God through life changes. Unit 2: God Chooses a People Just as God was present with people in Bible times, God is also with us. Children will learn this concept as they explore the calling of Abraham and the beginning of Israel. Children will also realize that God wants us to be generous as they explore the story of Abraham and Lot in Canaan. Through the story of Abraham and Sarah, children will learn that God wants us to be patient; and the story of Isaac and Rebekah teaches that God has a plan for all our lives. Unit 3: Trusting God's Promises Through the account of Jacob and Esau, children will discover that God's love is the same for all people. Continuing with the narrative of the twin brothers and the birthright, children learn that God does not want us to be envious of others -- God is with us even when we do wrong, and because God forgives us, God wants us to forgive others. This unit also explores the story of Elizabeth and Zechariah, and children will discover that we can trust God's promises. The Leader's Guide is easy to teach with specific activities highlighted that require little preparation. Trusting Others, Trusting God is an investigation of the concepts of moral and religious trust. The question of why or how it is rational to trust anyone has been the typical focus of philosophers, with an underlying assumption that trust must be justified. In most cases, trust (even – or perhaps especially religious trust) is portrayed as irrational. Sheela Pawar argues that a grammatical investigation of the concept of trust can help rectify this mistreatment.

Mothering is messy. Our joy and hope in raising children doesn't change the reality that being a mom can be frustrating, stressful, and tiring. But just as God is using us to shape our children, God is using our children and motherhood to shape us. In The Better Mom, author Ruth Schwenk, herself a mother of four children, encourages us with the good news that there is more to being a mom than the extremes of striving for perfection or simply embracing the mess. We don't need to settle for surviving our kid's childhood. We can grow through it. With refreshing and heartfelt honesty Ruth emboldens moms to: Find freedom and walk confidently in purpose Create a God-honoring home environment Overcome unhealthy and destructive emotions such as anger, anxiety, and more Avoid glorifying the mess of mom-ing or idolizing perfection Cultivate life-giving friendships At the heart of The Better Mom is the message that Jesus calls us to live not a weary life, but a worthy life. We don't have to settle for either being apathetic or struggling to be perfect. Both visions of motherhood go too far. Ruth offers a better option. She says, "It's okay to come as we are, but what we're called to do and be is far too important to stay there! The way to becoming a better mom starts not with what we are doing, but with who God is inviting us to become."
